Register kill

So humans see their bite code, and zombie get the ability to register a kill by entering a humans bite code.

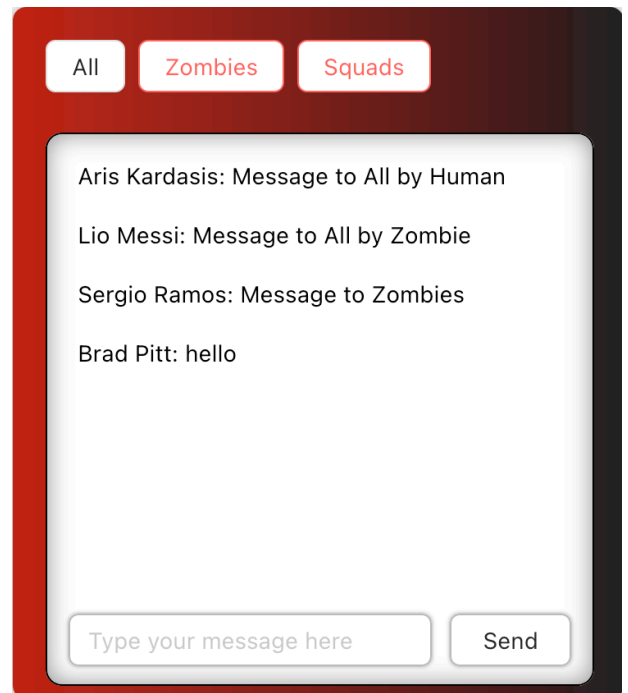

When a zombie kills a human, the human's UI now changes as he becomes a zombie himself,

On the right side of the page there are 3 tabs, the chat tab, the players tab, and the squad tab.

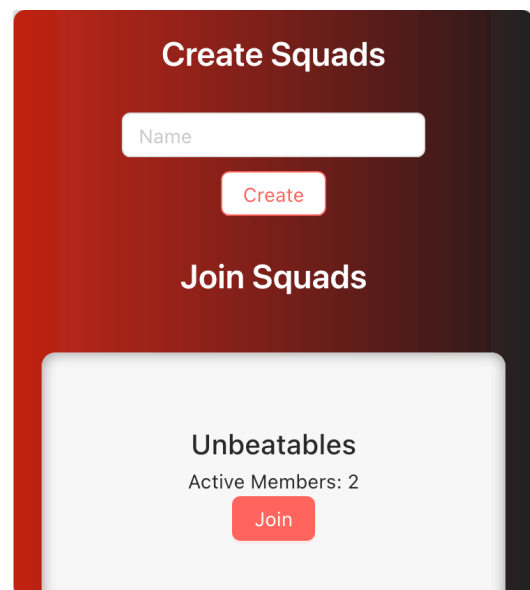

In the chat tab you can communicate with other players.

In the players tab you can view the players list and see who are the members in the game.

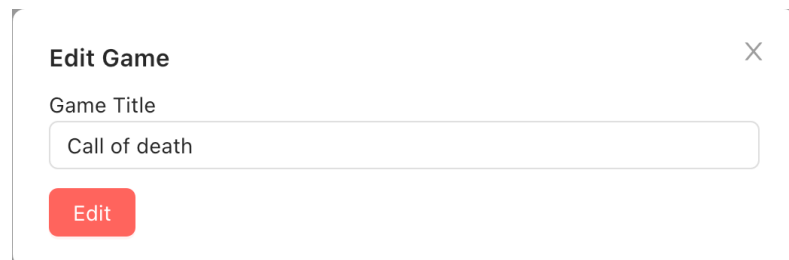

In the squad tab you can create your own squad or even join an existing one.

Admin

When an admin views the game he is present a similar screen, only with some different options.

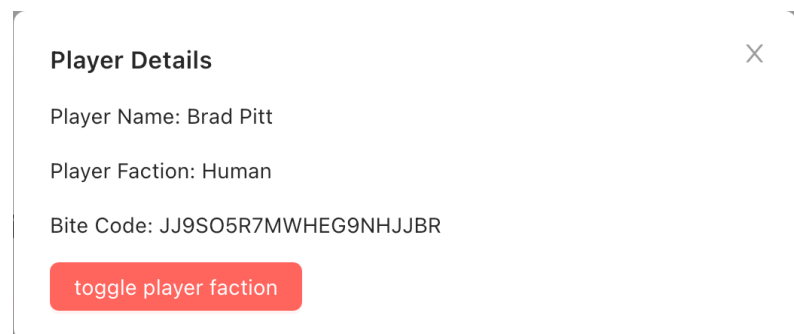

The screenshot shows a modal titled "Edit Game" with a close button (X) in the top right corner. Inside the modal, there is a label "Game Title" above a text input field containing the text "Call of death". Below the input field is a red button labeled "Edit".

Admin has the ability to edit the game, by changing it's title, and by also changing it's state, going from Registration -> In progress -> Completed.

He can view the same chat the the players in the game see, but he cannot type anything.

He can also view the info of all the players in the game, by pressing the players tab, and he can toggle their faction. For example, he can make a human become
